Dear Readers,

Welcome back to reality with a bump!

After the jolly holidays and the sparkle of the festive season January can all too well remind us of the day-to-day stuff playing on our minds. There's a rise in anxiety throughout the UK, we'll admit, we've felt it from time to time ourselves. Usually at 2am when we can't get back to sleep! We've found that meditation can give you skills to push those niggles away, read on for some top tips.

This February we welcome the Chinese year of the pig! It got us thinking about how often animals pop up in religion and superstition, have a read of our article with a nice cuppa!

If you want to really feel good all year, getting organised is the gift that keeps on giving! Why not have a go at making a handy greeting card divider so that you never miss a birthday again! You'll thank yourself!

Happy & healthy 2019 all!

Card Clever

As we start a New Year, there is sometimes nothing more satisfying than setting off on the right foot and being organised for the year will make you feel super smug! One thing that often catches us on the hop is sending cards to friends and family. This year we plan to stock up on cards and keep them sectioned by month so that we know no one is left out! If you're super organised, why not write and stamp them before you store them too! That way, you don't have that on the spot pressure of thinking of something clever or funny to write and you can just grab it as you rush out the door and pop it in the postbox! High five yourself!

Concertina Organizer

You will need:

- A4 coloured card (18 sheets)
 - Strong brown card x2 (slightly larger than A4)
- 2 x large sheets patterend paper
- 6mm wide double sided sticky tape
 - Glue
- 1m ribbon
 - Ruler
 - Scissors

1. Join 2 pieces of coloured card together by the short sides using the double side tape. Repeat with two more pieces of coloured card. You should now have two long pieces of coloured card.

Measure 1.5cm repeats along each of these long sheets and fold into a zigzag concertina. You should have 37 flat spaces, trim off any excess. Starting at one end, put a strip of double sided tape down the length in the first space, then skip two spaces and put tape in the next space between folds. Continue to the end of the sheet.

2. Take a piece of coloured card and fold it into 3 equal sections along the length.

3. Take a sheet of coloured card and using the double sided tape on the concertina sides, stick it to both of the concertinas at both short ends. You should now have a long length of pockets. There should be 12 spaces, one for each month!

4. Cut your strong brown cardboard 1cm bigger than your A4 card all the way around each side.

5. Using glue, stick your patterend paper onto the strong card, folding around to the other side and sticking down.

6. Join the two covers with the cardboard previously folded in 3 along the long edge.

7. Stick the accordion file inside the covers.

8. Use the length of ribbon to tie around your file to keep it closed.

9. You might like to add some tabs so that you can write the month on to each divider.

By The Barn by Angela Sargent

Happy new 2019, a momentous year, not just for farming!

While we are out working late afternoons, we sometimes hear Ravens passing overhead and maybe a buzzard or two will come and sit watching in case we disturb a vole or mouse and provide their dinner. Ted and Pip love to accompany us and have great fun sniffing round and rooting under the hedge, until Ted gets bored and goes to sit watching the sheep.

The leaves have gone and few berries remain on the hedges for the birds and if we are working as the light begins to go, we can hear owls hooting in the woods. It can be quite eerie at times.

Healthy Eating On A Budget by Rebecca Tucker

January is often a month to cut back on our spending. It's also a good time to start afresh and many decide to kick start their healthy eating plans this month. So here are a few tips to help you combine the two!

1. Include Protein At Every Meal And Snack

Protein keeps energy levels stable and is essential for the body's growth and repair. Protein is found in meat and poultry, fish, seafood, eggs, lentils, beans, pulses (like chickpeas), quinoa, nuts and seeds. Money-saving Tip: the cheapest sources of protein are vegetarian sources, like beans and lentils.

2. Eat Plenty Of Fibre

Fibre keeps energy

levels constant, balances your hormones, fills you up, keeps you regular and those fruit and veg contain many immune-boosting plant chemicals. Aim to eat a rainbow of colours over the course of the week.

Money-saving Tip: Consider basing meals around special supermarket deals (example Aldi's Super 6).

3. Choose Healthy Fats

The body loves omega 3 fats, which boost mood and support the stress response, and reduce inflammation. They are found in oily fish (salmon, trout, halibut, cod, mackerel, sardines), flaxseeds, chia seeds, hemp seeds and walnuts. Money-saving Tip: Frozen fish is a far cheaper option than refrigerated. Don't be fooled into thinking it's inferior.

4. Think Carefully About Starchy 'Carbs'

A heavy reliance on white pasta, bread, rice and potatoes, can unbalance your blood sugar levels, making you crave more food and store more fat. Swap to healthier wholegrain alternatives; brown rice, wholemeal pasta and bread, and sweet potatoes, and ensure this element takes up no more than a quarter of your meal. Top Tip: Bulk up your meals with inexpensive non-starchy veg instead.

Oink Oink!

On the 5th of February we welcome in the Chinese New Year and according to the Chinese horoscope, this is the year of the Pig!

Piggies are reasonable people and more robust than their peers. The pig manages to make their projects a reality thanks to their strategic vision and business skills. Happy and responsible, greatly attached to their family, the pig doesn't count their time or energy when it comes to feeding and protecting those closest to them.

People born during a Year of the pig are invited to wear a red bracelet for the duration of their year, to stimulate their luck.

If you're a pig (1935, 1947, 1959, 1971, 1983, 1995, 2007), be sure to take special care of your well-being, even if that means you appear to lack consideration for friends and family. You may experience periods of doubt, however they will fortunately be fleeting.

Black Nut Brown White Golden Oak Anthracite Grey

Sacred Kingdom

As we enter the Chinese year of the pig in February, it makes us think how often animals feature throughout religion and superstition. Some for surprising reasons!

The Cow

The reason for the cow's sacred status is usually to do with its helpfulness as a species: we drink their milk, use their dung as fertiliser and historically used them to till our fields.

The Monkey

Hinduism views monkeys as culturally significant, thanks in part to the monkey god Hanuman.

The Cat

The felines' ability to control vermin and snakes meant that cats were praised as symbols of poise and grace. Killing a cat in Egyptian society was punishable by death.

The Dog

While Ancient Egyptians were better known for their love of cats, dogs also got their share of respect: they were associated with Anubis, god of the underworld.

The Elephant

The largest land mammals on Earth are especially beloved by followers of the Hindu faith:

the concept of reincarnation places elephants as one of the highest ranked animals to come back as due to their serenity & strength.

The Tiger

The big cats are consequently symbols of courage and power, thought to drive away evil and bring about good luck. White tigers are particularly sacred: these creatures have supposedly overcome trials and tribulations to reach a state of higher understanding about the world, and their white fur symbolises their wisdom.

The gurus of colour have announced their hue of 2019! Be prepared to see Coral everywhere this year. The trend for bright bold colours is staying with us, but teamed with earthy hues for a grown up feel.

and browns will be in, and dark dark blues are a fabulous neutral too!

Not quite sure how you're going to cope with this year's hottest colour and struggling for some inspiration? Well, for interiors, coral works great with the ceaseless trend for mid-century inspired furniture and looks stunning with brass and warm-toned metals. If you're thinking of the film 'Hotel Budapest' then you're on the right track!

We're so in love with grey still we don't think we can ever wave it goodbye, but for a change of neutral, linens

Meditative Mindset

With the fast pace of life and never having enough hours in the day, it's easy to feel like life is running away with you. By incorporating meditation into your life, it gives you coping strategies to put the irrational side of your brain back in its place. Have a more peaceful 2019 by practicing these things...

Manage Anxiety

1. With your hand on your stomach, focus on your breath as you inhale and exhale. If you notice thoughts creeping into your head, acknowledge them and imagine them passing by.

2. Focus on the weight of your body in your chair and allow thoughts to come and go as you normally would (because they will—meditation isn't void of thought), but as soon as you realize you're lost in the thought, pivot your thinking back to the sensation you were focusing on.

3. Imagine the feeling of warm sunshine the next time you're overwhelmed—but instead of just your face, imagine the light beam filling up each part of your body, from your toes to your head. Allow the warmth, light, and spaciousness to melt away any tension in the body.

4. Talk to yourself as a friend would talk to you. Ask yourself, "what do you appreciate most in your life?" Once you've got something (or things) in mind, dwell in that gratitude for 30 seconds. Enquiring in the second person separates you from your mind and encourages a space of appreciation, free from any overwhelming emotions.
