Dear Readers,

The summer holidays are just around the corner and we've got everything crossed that we'll have some sunny sunny days! A few nice weekends sat outside with a cool drink will really do the trick!

This summer it's the 50th anniversary of the moon landing. The moment when the whole world held its breath and watched transfixed as Neil Armstrong slowly descended the ladder to the surface of the moon. We've found some interesting moon facts to celebrate!

This July we also see 'Global Tiger Day' which raises awareness of the plight of the largest of the big cats and their diminishing numbers. We've also got instructions on how to make a cute tiger mask with your little one!

Have a fab summer!

Humankind's Greatest Achievement

How many movies, songs and anecdotes have sprung from humanity's first landing on the moon? This milestone event, which took place on July 20, 1969, seemed to encapsulate both the frenzy and change of the Sixties.

It was on 20th July that astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin ("Buzz") Aldrin Jr. bounced among lunar craters and Armstrong uttered the oft-quoted line, "One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind." But did you know that the Apollo spacecraft itself weighed 44 tons and stood nearly 60 ft. high?

The famous Apollo 11 landing was only one mission in several decades of space exploration. During this tremendous period, the USSR and the United States led the way in the exploration of the great unknown of space.

Television sets around the world were tuned into the historic lunar landing of Apollo 11 on July 20, 1969. For those who witnessed the event, the team of three Apollo 11 astronauts — Neil Armstrong, "Buzz" Aldrin, and Michael Collins (who orbited the craft around the moon)—seemed to embody the ideals and hopes of all human beings.

From this trip and subsequent Apollo missions, much was learned about the physical constitution and early history of the earth's only natural satellite, including information about magnetic fields, heat flow, volcanism, and seismic activity. The total lunar rock sample returned to earth weighed nearly 900 lbs. (400 kg).

Earlier advances in rocket technology allowed for the initial lift-off of the Apollo spacecraft. The three-stage Saturn V rocket, developed 7.5 million lbs. (3.4 million kg) of thrust at liftoff, giving the Apollo spacecraft a powerful boost. At launch, the total assembly stood 363 ft (110 m) high and weighed more than 3,000 tons.

Did you know that...

The surface of the Moon features a huge number of impact craters from comets and asteroids that have collided with the surface over time. Because the Moon lacks an atmosphere or weather these craters remain well preserved.

Although research is continuing, most scientists agree that the Moon features small amounts of water.

The Moon rotates on its axis in around the same length of time it takes to orbit the Earth. This means that from Earth we only ever see around 60% of its surface (50% at any one time).

The side that we can see from Earth is called the near side while the other side is called the far side (it is sometimes called the dark side despite the fact that it is illuminated by the Sun just as much as the near side).

The Moon is very hot during the day but very cold at night. The average surface temperature of the Moon is 107 degrees Celsius during the day and -153 degrees Celsius at night.

The Earth's tides are largely caused by the gravitational pull of the Moon.

Tyger Tyger, burning bright...

Global Tiger Day, often called International Tiger Day on 29th July, is an annual celebration to raise awareness for tiger conservation. The goal of the day is to promote a global system for protecting the natural habitats of tigers and to raise public awareness and support for tiger conservation issues.

According to the latest WWF estimates, there are only 3,890 tigers left in the wild, whilst at the beginning of the 20th century their number exceeded 100,000. But these figures seem to be conservative, since data of other populations aren't considered. The situation could be worse than expected. And Bangladesh confirms it, by releasing the new census of the Sundarbans National Park that registered only 100 tigers approximately, compared to the 440 individuals in 2004. The lack of accurate data on these animals' status doesn't allow defining urgent actions to be taken.

In 2010, Saint Petersburg hosted the Tiger Summit, in which countries committed to the goal Tx2, the doubling of wild tigers by 2022. We are more than a third of the way to 2022, so need to move at a faster, more determined pace if we hope to achieve the Tx2 goal.

In recent years, conservation work and the commitment of various governments has halted the decline in global tiger numbers. But there's a lot more work to do.

For more information on Tigers and their welfare, visit: www.wwf.org.uk/wildlife/tigers

If you have children, why not have a tiger day learning about tigers and making this tiger mask below! RARRR!

Tiger Mask

You will need:

Large paper plate

Orange and black paint

Orange and black card or craft foam.

Black pipe cleaners
Glue
Thin elastic

Instructions:

Paint the back of the paper plate orange and leave to dry. Only when completely dry, paint on some black stripes - you'll need patience! For younger children you may want to pre-paint the orange paint.

When the paint is dry cut out your eye holes.

Twist together 3 pipe cleaners in the middle. Glue these to the centre of the mask.

Cut out a black nose from foam or card and glue this in the middle of the pipe cleaners.

Cut out 2 ears from orange foam or card. Glue these to the top of the face.

Make a small hole in either side of the face. Tie a piece of elastic through to hold your mask on.

By The Barn by Angela Sargent

“Cut them in June, come again soon. Cut them in July they'll surely die!”. The showers we had last month have resulted in good crops of thistles and nettles and one of our jobs this month will be to cut them off.

There are different ways of getting rid of them - we could use sprays but we prefer to mechanically cut them, hopefully before they've seeded. I know birds and butterflies appreciate them for food and habitat but they are not in short supply, they take up space where grass could grow and they are very persistent. It's quite an enjoyable job to do, looking back at a 'clean' field gives you a degree of satisfaction!

Soft fruits are ready to be picked, as are the salad vegetables and this is labour intensive - a bit of a problem if temporary staff is unavailable!

Join Mercia Archers

Mercia Archers formed in February, establishing the fantastic sport of archery in South Derbyshire. The founding members range from juniors to retirees, and bring with them a huge depth of experience across all areas of archery.

This new club is keen to welcome guests, and public at open events, where they can enjoy archery; supported and encouraged regardless of age, ability, bow type or discipline.

Along with lots of shooting practise to develop your technique, it also includes presentations and demonstrations; from the historical longbow to the Olympic style recurve and high-tech compound bows. As well as target archery, the course will include experience of clout archery, shooting at flags up to 180yds/165m away, for which the club already holds a fearsome reputation across the UK and boasts several of the top UK clout archers. On completion of the course, beginners are qualified and invited to join the club with the continuing support and encouragement that being part of such a friendly club brings.

They're also holding a Battle Tournament on 17th August, with up to 100 archers expected to compete in medieval dress, shooting long distances at targets of Vikings and longboats! The public are invited to come along and spectate, find out more about the club and the sport, and make use of the Gresley Old Hall bar and facilities.

Perfect Picnics

July is 'Picnic Month' and with the summer holidays looming what better way to enjoy the great outdoors than packing a picnic and taking off somewhere picturesque for a walk and a relaxing brunch, lunch or afternoon tea? Here's our handy checklist of items to bring with you so that you have every eventuality covered!

1. SUNSCREEN

While lunching under an umbrella or tree can reduce the impact of UV rays, skin damage is still possible in the shade.

2. BABY WIPES

A godsend for all those unforeseen spills and sticky hands.

3. BUG SPRAY

Remember to apply after sunscreen.

4. BOTTLE OPENER

Keep from resorting to desperate measures by remembering to pack a bottle opener for those bottles with pry-off lids. The same goes for another picnic essential: the corkscrew.

5. KNIFE

A small knife can be one of the most versatile tools in a picnic basket, used to spread condiments, slicing fruit or cutting sandwiches at your picnic destination. Small blades that fold or come with sheaths are best for packing away as they are safer.

6. FIRST AID SUPPLIES

Whether your picnic includes a hike in the woods or just a day at the local park, a first aid kit is a must. Basic supplies like bandages, paracetamol and bite and sting salves will keep you prepared.

7. RUBBISH BAGS

Follow the rule of leaving your picnic site "cleaner than you found it." Also use bin bags as rain ponchos or to lay under your blanket to keep wet grass from seeping through.

Let's Hear It For The Girls!

It's difficult to know what to make of the Women's World Cup which has just seen the USA emerge as World Champions again; but let me give you my view anyway!

I thoroughly enjoyed watching the Lionesses in their pursuit of the ultimate prize in football and it was enjoyable to watch the 'personality pieces' as we heard various players' background stories and got to know them as their characters shone through – all different but all with a story of determination to succeed in a sport which has been seen as 'a bit of fun' or even derided by football fans in general – well their World Cup campaign certainly put an end to that!

Women's Football in England (along with a few of our European neighbours) has been professional for a couple of years now and the improvement in fitness and skill levels is there for all to see, albeit still lagging behind the USA in these areas where the game has been professional for longer and is actually played by more women and girls than men and boys – in fact, the USA squad are currently in significant conflict with their own governing body over equal pay with the men's side, claiming that they are actually far more successful than their male counterparts... they have a point!

So, as a nation (almost) we sat down for England's games and cheered on the side, desperately hoping they would be able to do what the men's side have frequently failed to do and emulate their cricketing colleagues by being crowned Women's World Champions.

However; as with the men's team they fell short, losing to the USA at the semi-final stage and we genuinely felt for them at the final whistle as they fell to the ground, distraught at their failure to get to a final we all believed they could make.

This is where I believe it becomes difficult to honestly assess the tournament from an England perspective – our desire to embrace the women's game perhaps results in many sensible pundits being a little reticent in giving an assessment they believe in – but if the women's team are to be judged upon their performance alone (and to a woman they insist that they do) they will have to get used to criticism – I saw several very lively debates across sports media outlets with cheerleaders for the women's game taking genuine offence with those criticising the teams performance at the tournament.

Well tough! – the women's game wants to be taken seriously (rightly so) and their performance was actually not good enough!

To finish fourth when the previous squad finished third is not progress and yes, we enjoyed their efforts but the bottom line is that as a national side we went backwards in France, not forwards.

We gave the ball away far too often and lacked the physicality of the USA team in certain areas – Lionesses Coach Phil Neville must also take some of the criticism being aimed at his players – he insisted to anyone who would listen that England could win the tournament and added that not reaching the final would be 'failure' – im sure he will learn but that is a dangerous statement to make for a Coach and it is certainly coming back to bite him!

He also managed to offend the 2015 squad by claiming (after his side had lost to Sweden) that the third and fourth place fixture was a 'nonsense' game – third place being something the 2015 girls were very proud in achieving – this , having said the day before the game they were 'desperate' to achieve third place.

All-in-all a fabulous tournament to watch and enjoy – but with improvements needed both on and off the field!

Your Life Journey by Fay Petcher

There may come a time when you are at a crossroads in your life. This can be a daunting place to be in as you don't know which way to go and what is going to happen when you take your chosen route!

Going through a break-up, separation or divorce is one of those times. It is one of the most stressful and challenging things you will ever go through. You may be dealing with depression, stress, anxiety and anger as well as not sleeping, going over negative thoughts repeatedly and not getting any answers. This can be doubly difficult if you have children or didn't want to be at this crossroads in the first place.

Having a good support network around you is vital for both your health and wellbeing. Many people are now turning to a Separation and Divorce Coach to help them get over their breakup faster and to put the control back in their lives.

Feel Positive Coaching specialises in helping both men and women through their breakup, separation and divorce. Call or email them now to book your 30-minute free consultation and start to feel positive about your future!!

- 3 things you can do right now:
- Smile at the next person you see! (happiness spreads happiness)
- Do something differently – whether that be taking a different route home or cooking something you have never cooked.
