Safety in the Sunshine

Your skin is the largest organ your body has, it protects you and helps to regulate what's going on inside. Let's face it, during the summer our skin can take quite a battering. With scratches from gardening, mosquito and insect bites and sun exposure it can all get a bit too much. Start taking care of your skin so that it can take care of you.

Vitamins & Food

Olive Oil

Researchers have found that a higher consumption of olive oil (more than 2 teaspoons a day) was associated with 31% fewer signs of ageing compared to people who ate less. About 75% of the fat in olive oil is monounsaturated fatty acids, which may play a role in the youth boost. The antioxidant polyphenols in olive oil could also quench damaging free radicals.

Tomatoes

People who ate 5 tablespoons of tomato paste daily, along with almost a tablespoon of olive oil for 12 weeks, had 33% more protection from sunburn compared to a control group that ate just olive oil, according to a 2008 UK study. The antioxidant lycopene (levels of which are higher in cooked, processed tomatoes) improves skin's natural SPF. Though it's not a replacement for sunscreen!

Sardines

Fatty fish is particularly rich in the type of omega-3 called DHA, an anti-inflammatory. Along with salmon, these little fishies can help keep your skin clear.

Green tea

Research shows that people who drank a beverage containing green tea polyphenols daily for 12 weeks had skin that was more elastic and smooth, and had one-quarter less sun damage when exposed to UV light compared to a control group. The brew's catechins like EGCG (antioxidants) boost blood flow and oxygen to the skin, which delivers key nutrients to keep your complexion healthy, say researchers.

Lotions & Potions

Sunscreen

These are vital for skin health, as they absorb or reflect some of the sun's ultraviolet (UV) radiation and thus help protect against sunburn. Depending on the mode of action, sunscreens can be classified into physical sunscreens (i.e., those that reflect the sunlight) or chemical sunscreens (i.e., those that absorb the UV light). Health organisations recommend the use of sunscreen because it aids in the prevention of skin cancers. Many sunscreens do not block UVA radiation, which does not primarily cause sunburn but can increase the rate of cancers. The use of broad-spectrum (UVA/UVB) sunscreens can address this concern. Diligent use of sunscreen can also slow or temporarily prevent the development of wrinkles and sagging skin.

Moisturisers

These can play a key role in both adding water to the skin and keeping it hydrated. In order to help keep water in the skin, moisturisers contain substances called humectants. These are substances that are capable of attracting water and help to conserve the water in the skin. One of the oldest and best examples is glycerin, sometimes called glycerol. This has been the standard humectant for many decades based on its excellent safety record.

In the case of dry skin, the skin cells are being shed too fast. Rather than being shed individually these come off in clumps that look like white flakes. Repeated application of moisturiser increases the water content and normalises cell turnover. This is why it is important to continue using a moisturiser on the skin.

So to keep your skin in tip-top health this summer, be sure to keep it hydrated and protected!

Summer Skies

If you're a night owl, the summertime night skies can often offer you some of the best things to see, all you have to do is look up! Here are some of the summer's top astronomical events heading your way...

See the Perseid meteor shower

Mid-August will see the reappearance of the perseid meteor shower, caused by the debris stream from the comet Swift-Tuttle. The shower will radiate between the constellations Perseus and Camelopardalis, and you may see activity from mid-July. Best seen in the pre-dawn hours, it takes a bit of dedication, but it's worth it!

Get ready for the elongation of Mercury

Mercury is visible to the naked eye, but it is a bit of a challenge. It's so close to the Sun that the separation between the two isn't particularly large as seen from Earth. During the moment of greatest Eastern Elongation on 27 August, we'll have our best chance to spot it, low towards the west as the Sun is setting.

See a planet at opposition

Saturn moves into opposition on 14 August: its face will be fully illuminated by the Sun, so it will be at its brightest.

Neptune and Jupiter do the same on 16 September and 26 September respectively. These moments are potentially great opportunities for astrophotography, but it may be worth trying your techniques out on Saturn first, because Neptune will be a real challenge.

However, even with the naked eye Jupiter and Saturn will be easy to see.

By The Barn by Angela Sargent

July already and with it brings the start of harvest for this year.

The rape will have been dessicated, or swathed. This is because the crop ripens unevenly but needs to be dry for processing. It will be combined to produce a small black, poppy-like seed, which can then be turned into a highly nutritious oil.

Much was grown in Ukraine and exported overseas, but the horrific war there has interfered with that. Our thoughts are with those suffering there still.

From mid month, our conservation field margins can be grazed or cut and ground beetles are plentiful, particularly where there are 'beetle banks' in mid field. They hide under stones during the day and hunt caterpillars and worms at night.

Redshank, also known as Redleg, can be found on the bare Earth at the edges of fields. It has a red stem and narrow, pointed leaves with an oblong of tight knit pink flowers erect at the top and it is part of the dock family.

Along our drive we often see such plants, the occasional orchid or plentiful yarrow, eye bright, mousewort and self heal, along with those we don't want, such as thistles and ragwort. In fact we've noticed where our cattle graze we get a good crop of buttercups and where the sheep graze we tend to get more thistles. These will be topped now to stop them spreading.

We've also seen a Roe deer on occasion, crossing our drive - an unusual occurrence for us, as we are not that far from civilisation.

Avoid Those Tentse Moments!

Many of us have a tent languishing in the loft or at the back of the garage. Camping can be a really fun and cheap way to have a summer get-away. If you're tempted to get outdoors, here's some tips to set up your temporary home in a super easy jiffy!

Read the instructions...

If you're like us, it's probably been a while since you set up that tent, so familiarise yourself with the 'How To', it'll save your sanity in the long-run.

No instructions!

Do an internet search. Many manufacturers' instructions are available online.

Put up the tent at least once... Don't wait until your camping trip to learn about pitching a tent! Try it in the privacy of your garden. If you don't have a garden, visit the nearest playground or park. Here's what to do:

Unpack your tent...

- Spread all of the pieces on the ground.
- Make sure you know which piece is which.
- Read through the instructions again (really!) and make sure you have a solid understanding of the whole process.
- Okay. Now you can begin! Follow the manufacturer's instructions exactly, in the order they are given.

At camp...

- Remember to bring along the instructions - and use them!
- Arrange to arrive at your camping spot early in the day. You don't want to be setting up a tent when you (and the kids!) are tired and hungry. You definitely don't want to be pitching a tent in the dark. That's why you did all that practising at home! You now know your tent so well that you can pitch it in the dark!).

Star of the BBQ By Paul Shum Family Butchers

Barbecues usually mean a get together and what could be better than a delicious feast of the very best burgers, sausages and marinated chicken? But how about something a little more adventurous? Why not take it one step further with Tomahawk steaks that will have your guests talking for days!

Cooking a Tomahawk steak on the grill...

These bad boys are usually pretty big and thick so the best way to cook them is on the barbecue or grill. They're essentially a rib eye with the rib bone in place, they are generally less commonly known.

We suggest a 'reverse sear'. You'll need a food thermometer. Let the steak reach room temperature and season well. Cook your steak on the grill at a low temperature for a few minutes each side at around 200-200F. Turn it often and take it off the heat when the steak has reached 115F. Leave it under foil for a few minutes (to retain the heat) and then whack the heat up on your barbecue and sear it on both sides for a nice crispy outside and juicy, moist inside, at around 130F for medium-rare. The bone helps to hold the heat as well. There's no need to rest a reverse-seared steak.

Serve drizzled with some herby garlic butter, a pile of salad, asparagus wrapped in pancetta and filled potato skins for a hearty spread.

Come and see us up at Woodmill Farm in Yoxall and ask for our barbecue choices – we often have specials available including some of the very best steak cuts you'll find for miles around!

The Alrewas Show 2022

The Alrewas Show is one of Staffordshire's best loved and most popular country shows, celebrating the county's agricultural heritage and the thriving modern community of the village of Alrewas.

There's something for everyone, with prize classes for farm animals and horses, and competitions in cookery, horticulture, arts and crafts, as well as children's craft competitions. The best of local artisan produce is on sale in our Food Hall and around the ground, while classic cars and tractors are on display alongside some truly huge agricultural machines.

There's plenty to keep the youngsters entertained, including soft plays areas - and they'll love coming in to the ring to meet the hunt dogs. If you're a dog owner you can enter your pet in the Fun Dog Show and dog agility classes.

The Show takes place annually on the third Saturday in July and this year takes place on Saturday 16th July, at the Show Field on Daisy Lane just outside Alrewas. There's plenty of free parking, but we recommend turning up early to avoid the queues. The Show Field is generally accessible for wheelchair and mobility scooter users, and disabled parking is available next to the pay gates for easy access.

Admission:

Adults: £7.00 | Children & Concessions £5.00 | Family Ticket (2 Adults, 2 Children) £20.00. Gates open to the public at 10:00 and the Show ends at 5pm.

Come and spend the day at the best small country show in the district!

National Allotments Week By Tim Brooks

National Allotments Week started in 2002 as a way of raising awareness of allotments and the role they play in helping people to live healthier lifestyles, grow their own food, develop friendships and bolster communities. The campaign week is still thriving 18 years later and interest in growing your own fruit and vegetables has never been stronger since the WW2 Grow for Victory campaign.

As secretary & treasurer at our own site at Bradmore Gardens Allotment Association in Burton, I'm very aware how important it is to have a thriving allotment. We have 27 plots at our site and it's always great to see folk making the most of their own plots. All are different too, as folk grow various varieties of fruit & veg. My wife and I have three allotments and grow all types of things, much we freeze for winter and store for the colder months. Never have allotments been so valuable, as food prices rise so much and home grown always tastes much better. Together with working outdoors in the fresh air, its good exercise and a great way for families to spend time together too!

The National Allotments Week theme for 2022 is "Bugs, Bees and Broccoli" and acknowledges the importance of gardening with nature in mind. There is a survey called "Big Bug Survey" that you can download on the "National Allotment Society" website to monitor which bugs you are getting on your allotment site. They are working alongside "Buglife", to see exactly which species of bugs and other beneficial insects you get. The link is below.

An allotment plot is a very complex web of plants, micro-organisms, fungi, insects and animals that not only produces food but also supports ecosystem services such as pollination and offers a refuge for wildlife in urban areas. Without all these an allotment would not function correctly. We need to attract animals like hedgehogs to eat the slugs and stop using insecticides and slug pellets. We are seeing the harm done by chemicals in our environment, so time to let nature itself work it's magic.

Made For Each Other

This 25th July has got to be one of our most favourite days of note. It celebrates two of the things that delight us the most. If like us you're a fan of Cheese & Wine, then this is the day for you! Surely there should be a Hallmark card for such an occasion?! In the absence of one, why not try out this delicious recipe that includes both dreamy ingredients!...

White Wine Fondue

Ingredients:

500g good cheddar cheese
300 ml milk
200 ml white wine
4 whisked egg yolks
10g plain flour
1 clove of garlic, peeled

Instructions:

1. Mix the wine and milk together in a jug.
2. Grate the cheese and place in a bowl over a saucepan of simmering water.
3. Add the milk and wine mixture and the whole peeled garlic clove. It should take 10-15 minutes for the cheese to melt. At first, you will see a mass, then slowly the cheese will melt and become more fluid.
4. Once you have reached the desired consistency, whisk the flour into the egg yolks and pour this mixture into the melted cheese a little at a time, mixing continuously.
5. If the mixture is too thick add a splash more wine to make sure the consistency is smooth and creamy.

6. Stir well and cook for another 10 minutes.

7. Once ready, pour the fondue into your fondue serving pot. Place the pot into your larger dish and fill the outer dish with hot water to keep your fondue warm.

8. Serve the fondue immediately, while it's still hot, with your choice of things to dip into it.
